THE INVITATION

Come Stand Beneath the Tall One, Again

Denali needs no introduction repeated here in full — this document has already, as Satellite 02 in the field of Sun Disc Satellites, described the mountain the Koyukon Athabascan people call Deenaalee, the tall one, North America's highest peak at 6,190 metres and a summit still actively being built by ongoing uplift and glacial carving.

As an Ascension Gate, this same mountain carries the name Thunderbird — in some of the source material, alternately Phoenix — sponsored by Chohan Maitreya, the same Master who directly sponsors Kilimanjaro's Sun Disc, two separate site-responsibilities held by one Master on two different continents.

This document keeps three roles distinct at once: Denali as a confirmed Satellite of the Arkansas Sun Disc, Denali as this not-yet-awakened Ascension Gate, and Chohan Maitreya's separate sponsorship of Kilimanjaro. One mountain, several careful distinctions.

Imagery Held at the Foothills, Not the Summit

Denali's summit rises to 6,190 metres, the highest point in North America, built of granite forced upward along the Denali Fault and shaped continuously since by some of the most active glacial erosion on the continent.

This document deliberately places this Gate's imagery at the Kahiltna approach or the surrounding foothills rather than the summit itself — the mountain's extreme scale and the serious technical demands of reaching its peak make foothill and approach imagery the more honest, groundable choice for a document meant to be read rather than climbed.

The Koyukon Athabascan name Deenaalee, restored as the mountain's official name in 2015 after decades under an imposed alternative, is discussed more fully in this document's companion Satellite brief — a name held continuously by one people for far longer than any competing name survived.

THE CHAKRA ITSELF

A Storm-Bird's Threshold

Like Osiris, Isis, and Sheba before it, Thunderbird belongs to the further transpersonal layer beyond the seven classical chakras, without one settled body location in the wider literature.

The Thunderbird is a figure found across many Indigenous North American traditions — a powerful being associated with storm, thunder, and the sky's own raw power, often understood as a guardian and a bringer of necessary, sometimes destructive, renewal. The alternate naming, Phoenix, points toward a closely related theme found in a different tradition entirely: renewal that comes specifically through fire and rebirth.

Held at a mountain still actively building itself — uplift, glacier, and frost-shatter all visibly at work — the pairing of a storm-and-renewal figure with genuinely active, ongoing geological transformation is, this document suggests, a resonant one.

THE ORIENTATION

Its Place Among the Twelve Gates

Among the Twelve, this Gate shares its sponsor, Chohan Maitreya, directly with Kilimanjaro's Sun Disc — one Master, two separate site-responsibilities, on two different continents.

NOT YET AWAKENED

Status: not yet awakened, per the source material. Denali is also one of Arkansas's confirmed Satellites — a second, separate role held at the same mountain.

WHAT THIS GROUND OFFERS

Beginning With What a Body Needs

WATER & BREATH

Glacier-fed rivers running the length of the range, and air with almost nothing in it but itself.

GROUND & SHELTER

Solid granite bedrock, still being shaped continuously by ice and frost.

FOOD & PROVISION

Caribou, salmon-bearing rivers, and a subarctic ecosystem sustaining the Koyukon and neighbouring peoples for generations.

WORK & CRAFT

Mountaineering and guiding traditions built around one of the most technically demanding peaks on the continent.

WHAT THIS GROUND OFFERS

Rising Toward What a Community Needs

KINSHIP & BELONGING

A name — Deenaalee — carried by one people, unbroken, for longer than any outside map of this mountain has existed.

CHILDREN & LEARNING

A living geology lesson in real time — glaciers, frost-shatter, and uplift, all still actively shaping the ground you can watch.

CULTURE & CEREMONY

Thunderbird traditions found across many Indigenous North American nations, each with its own distinct telling.

REST & RENEWAL

Near-endless summer light and a scale of silence that reorders what feels urgent.

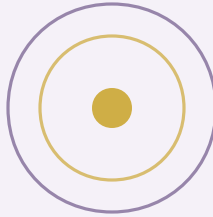

VISION & CALLING

Held, in the framework offered here, as a not-yet-awakened Gate of storm-born renewal.

Three Roles, One Mountain

This Gate's shared sponsorship with Kilimanjaro's Sun Disc, both held by Chohan Maitreya, is offered here exactly as the source material states it — a single Master's responsibility spanning two continents.

This document holds Denali's three separately sourced roles — Satellite, Gate, and the mountain's own Indigenous history and name — as genuinely distinct claims, none of them substituting for or diminishing the others.

A THRESHOLD, NOT A DESTINATION

None of this replaces standing on the ground itself. A Gate is not a monument and not a holiday stop — it is a place already at work, quietly, holding one point of the human body's own architecture open against the sky.

Whatever draws you here — a mountain still actively building itself, or the quieter claim of a storm-born threshold not yet crossed — the invitation is the same one this whole field of Gates extends.

*Come see if it calls to you
the way it has called to everyone who has ever stood here and felt something larger listening back.*

FIELD NOTES

Specifications & Coordinates

Ascension Gate XI of the Twelve · Denali, Alaska, United States.

DENALI

63.0692° N, 151.0070° W · Elevation 6,190 m (20,310 ft)

The highest peak in North America; imagery for this Gate is held at the Kahiltna approach and surrounding foothills rather than the summit.

SHARED SPONSORSHIP

Sponsor Chohan Maitreya also directly sponsors Kilimanjaro's Sun Disc — two separate site-responsibilities held by the same Master.

CROSS-OVER STATUS

Denali is also one of Arkansas's confirmed Sun Disc Satellites (Satellite 02) — a third, separate role held at the same mountain.

SPONSOR & COSMIC QUALITY
